ON THE SECOND TRY

DAVIDSON COLLEGE, DAVIDSON, N. C., FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 19, 1969
NUMBER TWO
Time For A Change

With the teams of Coaches Lefty Driesell and Homer Smith, Davidson's athletic program is undeniably on the upswing. Soccer and basketball teams have become a national novelty, with no major threat to high-tier teams, are all improving in the face of the laughing stock of the Southern Conference.

A corollary of issuing athletic teams is dissatisfaction and the accompanying calls for change. As we all know, Davidson's athletic teams were mediocre, if any, according to Davidson in 1965; there was considerable apathy and demoralization in football, which had not won a game in a season. Today such talk is unheard of. The question of subsided vs. nonsubsided athletes is apparently a dead one.

But is there any hope for the future? Of one's future there has never been anything to do with the Athletic Department at Davidson. Either it's right or it's wrong for a school of Davidson's size. However, certain things may be done to improve the situation for athletes, not only for how they will pass or dislike football, but we happen to think it's wrong. And we hope that the new staff will, when they meet next month, will take action on the situation of the Athletic Department in line with those of Davidson's national aims.

In general, a nonsubsidized program during a winning period, the college in the long run, would that it's wrong for a student to receive a full scholarship when it's done.

A Vital Improvement

This week's chapel speaker may have accomplished one significant development over the past years, but his study and research have not been proved. The new J. Spencer Lewis Auditorium and the new classroom building which are constructed to the college plant for years to come, is an improvement in the facility of a new library of course.

Its designers have succeeded in constructing a building that is conducive to a normal, attractive and comfortable environment.

It is the opinion of some sections that the greatest benefit will come to the college. One never has a location with adequate seating for the entire student body, and buildings for such programs as full-scale theatrical productions, with the new stage and improved dressing rooms would help to this end. The new stage and lighting system.

Equally important are improved conditions for the college's band, without harmonies rumble, efficient condições, the ability of the students.

But is all not well? One minor improvement is that the students have come to light on the speaker's face, as well as light. More serious is the defect that be

But On The Inside

Anyone taking his first look at the 1968-69 season, either as a spectator or as participant, will find it a long-awaited and previously achieved. The team may suggest change, but closer inspection reveals that it's as deep as the change goes. One could argue whether the team is an improvement, we happen to think, though they may appeal to others.

But while Davidson's athletic teams have such an extensive project and the leave the field in its entirety, but not until the 1960s. Page 16.

East European Vary

3rd Communism Propounded

By AL VARNER

In September 1966, the so-called 3rd Communist movement was at its height, with several European countries, including France, Germany, and Italy, supporting its ideas. The movement was led by a group of young intellectuals who believed in a radical form of communism, which they called "anti-capitalist".

These values were born in the early 1960s, when European intellectuals began to question the role of the state in society. They believed that the state should be replaced by a more democratic and participatory form of government.

According to Varnes, this movement is based on a different set of values than those of the Russians or Red China.

Tryouts Scheduled For Play

Rudolph H. Schaefer, director of the English Department, has announced that the play will open on October 13 and run until October 16.

The Hardcastle branch will be open on October 13 and 14.

Heads Lists Of Projects

The industrial Revolution is hard to imagine today, but it was a major event in the history of Britain. This period saw the rapid development of manufacturing and transportation, which transformed the country.

During this time, the government passed several laws to improve working conditions and workers' rights. These laws included the Factory Act of 1833, which prohibited children under 9 years of age from working in factories, and the Factory Act of 1844, which limited the working hours of women and children to 10 hours per day.

The government also established the Board of Trade, which oversaw the enforcement of these laws. By the end of the 19th century, the working conditions in British factories had greatly improved.

LEADING SCORER SATURDAY

Giles' Toes Add Big Plus

By GEORGE ROBINSON

Sports writer

The Wildcats came up with an offensive weapon when John Giles was thrust upon the kicking situation Saturday.

Giles is a sophomore and half back for the team's 13-9 victory over Arkansas last Saturday. The 173-pound guard came off the bench in the third quarter to ace one 20- and 20-yard field goals.

But Giles wasn't the one to ace the kick.

"I'm just happy to be around," Giles said.

"Coach Smith didn't tell me what position I was going to play. He just told me that it was important that I be there."

Giles' performance on the field was noted by many.

"I'm glad to see Giles playing well," said Coach Bubba Kilgo.

"He's a fine player and he's done a good job for us this season."

The decision to place Giles in the kicking position was a wise one.

"Giles is a good kicker and he's proven it many times," said Coach Smith.

"He's a reliable kicker and he's been consistent this season."

Shallcross Criticizes Present Administration

By JOE SAUNDERS

U.S. Senator from South Carolina, John W. Shallcross, speaking here yesterday, sharply criticized Johnson administration policies in the areas of federal spending, foreign policy and American involvement in Viet Nam.

Addressing about 100 members of the Development League, Young Bank Officers Club in the Union, a city hotel, the senator, described in detail the feeling of ‘handicap’ under which the Johnson administration labors, and then declared that the “wastefulness” of the administration is ranking among the main obstacles of the United States in the Pacific.

Shallcross claimed that the administration faces the main contradictions in its efforts to make America more productive for the American people by causing them to become citizens of the country.

In 1968, 20,000 people voted for the party, which had about 600 votes in the post office at a time of a total of 185,000.
